at all levels; to lead technical analytical teams and to network effectively.

- Ability to build strong relationships with organisations external to SEAI where necessary.
- Knowledge of robust and reliable data management procedures.
- Excellent project management and organisation skills together with the ability to prioritise work and manage competing demands with a proven track record in meeting deadlines.
- Excellent communication (written and oral) and presentation skills in addition to good organisational skills.
- Well-developed IT skills including familiarity with databases, excel modelling, PowerPoint etc. and some experience with statistical modelling, for example using R, Python, Stata, or similar software.
- Ability to work under pressure and achieve tight deadlines with attention to detail.
- The ability to work on own initiative and display sound judgement.

Experience and Qualifications

ESSENTIAL REQUIREMENTS

The successful candidate must be able to demonstrate:

- A degree (a minimum of NFQ Level 7 or greater) in a relevant discipline such as but not limited to Economics, Data Science, Statistics, Energy Science, or Engineering.
- Minimum three years' experience working in these areas, or similar (can include graduate research work e.g. as a PhD student).
- Experience applying statistical modelling software such as Stata, R, Python, or similar.
- Excellent computer skills including a proficient use of Microsoft Excel, including spreadsheet construction and use.
- Some knowledge of Irish, European, and/or international energy policy / energy sector landscape.
- Excellent communication (written and oral) and interpersonal skills, including ability to communicate technical information to non-technical audiences.

DESIRABLE REQUIREMENTS

- Qualification at Masters or PhD level.
- Specific expertise in energy systems in one or several major sectors corresponding to SEAI's programmes, such as: renewable energy, transport systems, building energy efficiency, and/or building heating/cooling systems.
- Experience with policy assessment methods such as cost benefit analysis, cost-effectiveness analysis, life-cycle analysis, sensitivity analysis and scenario analysis.
- Experience conducting qualitative research.
- Experience applying econometric methods, e.g. experimental and quasi-experimental design, data collection and sampling strategies; and estimation and interpretation of statistical models.

SEAI Values

Passionate

We are enthusiastic about our role in working towards a sustainable energy society. We channel our passion and commitment into the way we operate to ensure that we will deliver for all of Irish society

Courageous

We understand the scale of Ireland's energy challenge and accept our role in meeting this challenge. We understand that every one of us has a part to play in delivering the energy changes that Ireland needs.

Innovative

We know that existing technologies and processes alone will not allow us to realise a fully sustainable energy society. We are continually learning, seeking new solutions, and constantly adapting to meet the demands of our fast-changing environment.

Trusted

We appreciate the trust placed in us by citizens, communities, business and Government. Without it we could not deliver on these objectives. We respect this trust and seek to maintain it by obtaining transparently, working with integrity, holding ourselves accountable and functioning independently.

Experts

We recognise the importance that technical expertise lays in achieving a sustainable energy future. We seek to further enhance this expertise within SEAI through research, critical thinking, consultation, listening, analysis and delivery.

Collaborative

We will not succeed by operating in isolation. We actively look to work with all those in Irish society; listening to ideas and concerns, incorporating feedback and looking to support every individual, community and business in Ireland to be a part of the sustainable energy revolution.
